International Conference
on 19 & 20 May 2011
at The King's Manor, University of York, UK

The conference will bring together historical, ethnographic, scientific, and new archaeological research to study glass use in the East and West during the Late Antique period (4th to 8th centuries), the different traditions in the two geographic regions, and the apparent fragmentation of the glass industry in the West in comparison to that in the Byzantine and Sasanian empires. It will also focus on the development of trading networks in early medieval Europe, in the eastern Empires, and in the early Islamic world through the medium of glass.

Conference fee: £ 90 (£ 45 for students);
single day fee £ 60 (£ 30 for students)
