Milk Glass Boy Washing a Dog, Maker unknown, USA?, ca. 1925?

Ken Nicol, Columbus, Ohio USA
Hello Siegmars,

You've assisted me on a couple of occasions & you've featured a couple of pieces I've found in Pressglas.

Now I really try not to bother you unless its a last resort, but it seems I have another piece that has proven difficult to positively ID. I talked to Sid & the only reference this one appears is in Grist, Milk Glass Covered Dishes & it only gives "Boy Washing Dog Covered Box, opaque white / milk glass with boy holding dog finial on a double wash tub base. 4 1/4" h overall, & box measures 3 1/2" x 4 1/2". Maker unknown." This is the only reference book in the U.S. that even has a picture of it so I thought maybe it might be of European manufacture. I do know its not a U.S. reproduction or knockoff because very few people have seen this thing in the U.S. so it would not have been a candidate to reproduce since its not well known. Now I am attaching a composit photo, but I do have the separate pics, however it might not be interesting enough for you to even consider & its probably a tough piece to ID especially since I don't even know what it was used for ... only thing I can figure is a match box maybe? The glass does have some fire to it like the mid to late 19th century milk glass & its a bit of a weird design [seltsames Design].

Anyway as always Siegmars any assistance is sincerely appreciated.
Thanks, Ken

SG: Hello Ken,
this time I am sorry not to be able to help you - I am very secure that it is not European, it must be USA, ca. 1925,
regards, Siegmars
